Death and Life
22.07.1993

- 1 Death is very benevolent one,
From his duty he spares none!
One day he shall surely come,
To take each to original home.
- 2 Ends all struggles in one stroke,
Frees all from the worldly yoke!
One way he is very kind one,
advance notice gets no one!
- 3 With notice will panic every one,
Apparently death is dear to none!
End is sure but time not sure,
We are in suspense, that's for sure.
- 4 Death is very impartial one,
In time, he catches all and one.
Death and time; same and one,
He is counting from day no one!
- 5 Life is very benevolent one
Opportunity it offers to every one.
Fantastic experience it can give
With happiness, bliss each can live.
- 6 It gives many a lucky stroke,
Use that luck and life not; yoke.
One way it is very kind one,
Life's end time knows no one.
- 7 In life's garden can play each one,
Flowers can choose each and one.
Life is worthy, if you can share,
For each and one, if you can care.
- 8 One can make his own life,
One can make it heaven or strife.
If you can value other's life,
Much better will be your own life.
- 9 Life is a role given to every one,
Play it fully as excellent one.
Life is judged after you leave,
Depends on how much, you gave love.
